

Architectural Design I

½ Credit

Semester

10,11,12

This course is beneficial for students interested in architectural design, interior design, or building construction. Students will do small basic design problems and then use knowledge gained from those to design a complete residence of their choice. Students will also learn about home financing and the real estate market. During the last half of the semester the student will design and draw a house.

